(By the Associated Press)

Washington, Feb. 25.—Further representations that have been made by the U. S. government today to Gen. Pancho Villa, pointing out the importance of giving up the body of Wm. S. Villa is willing to have relative of the man see his body and their visit will be in the presence of a representative to be designated by the American government. This change in Villa's attitude is the result of representations made by the U. S.

A U. S. army surgeon will be present when the body is exhumed and according to officials, an examination will be made to determine, if possible whether Villa's version of the killing is correct. Gen. Carranza is expected in Jaurez this week and will investigate the case. The state department hopes that through Carranza, Villa's superior officer, it can succeed in getting Benton's body.

PITCHER SAYS THEY'LL ACCEDE TO DEMANDS AND GO BACK TO OLD RATES IF LAW WILL AL-LOW.

of the Dixon Home Telephone company stated as follows:

"If we can legally go back to the old telephone rates we will do so until the rates can be adjusted by the state utilities commission."

This, in a nut shell, is the company's attitude. They are perfectly willing to accede to the demands of the farmers that they take off the new increased rates, if the new state laws will allow this action. An effort will be made to have the law on this point interpreted.

pion wrestler, at the Dixon opera

posed of any champion hopes that may have been nourished by Gustav Fristensky last night in the match in Chicago. Fristensky has been hailed by many as the logical man
to meet Gotch, but Cutler dropped him two straight falls, in 2:08 and 8:35.

The result of the Chicago match

and his many friends can be sure of him being at his best when he meets

tween George Dickey, weight 147,

ATTEMPT TO LOOT IOWA STATE VAULT

CRACKSMEN TRIED TO DYNA-MITE VAULT IN STATE TREAS-URER'S OFFICE THIS MORN-ING.

(Associated Press)

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 25.—Four
cracksmen early this morning forced
their way into the state house here,
attacked and bound the two watchmen and made an unsuccessful attempt to dynamite the vault in the state treasurer's office.

They entered about midnight and drilled four holes in the massive door and set off two charges, of the explosive, which failed to open the door. They finally contented themselves by taking $5 from the cash
drawer and left the building at daylight. One of the watchmen finally freed himself and gave the alarm,
although it was then too late to intercept the yeggmen.

The safe in the treasury office contained $7,500 in cash and over a million dollars worth of securities,
and the robbers would have made a rich haul.

MURDERER OF MRS. HEALY IS FOUND

RICHARD SCHULTZ CONFESSES TO GHASTLY CRIME—CUTS
THROAT OF DRUGGIST'S WIFE

(By the Associated Press)

Chicago, Feb. 25.—Richard Schultz
has been arrested and has confessed
to the murder of Mrs. Elizabeth Healy at her home last night. According to the police the man was in the habit of doing odd jobs at the house. "I assaulted the woman,"
he said.

The murder was most cruel and ghastly. The man trapped the woman on the enclosed back porch at the rear of the flat at 2449 Lincoln avenue and cut her throat with a bread knife she was using in her work. There was a struggle and the woman was still alive when her hos-
band came home, and was conscious,
as her eyes showed, but was unable to tell of her murderer because of the terrible wound in her throat.
She nodded her head when asked if it was a man and also nodded when asked if she knew him. She died soon after.

WATER CO. TO SINK NEW ARTESIAN WELL

HAS PURCHASED PART OF JOHN SALZMAN PROPERTY; WILL MAKE VALUABLE IMPROVE-MENT THERE.

The Dixon Water company yesterday purchased of John Salzman part of his property on the corner of Artesian place and River street, across from the company's plant, and they will sink a third artesian well on this corner, to supply the increasing demand for water and to give added pressure, the lack of which has been felt for some time.

The third artesian well is calculated to add greatly to the efficiency of the local water system and the company feels that it will, when the improvement is finished, be adequately equipped to cope with all emergencies.

MOB BURNS NEGRO; KILLED AN OFFICER

BLACK BOUND TO BOX, WHICH IS SET ON FIRE, AS 300
WATCH.

(By the Associated Press)

Shot When He Climbs Out
Murdered Lynched at Leland, Miss., After He Slew Deputy Sheriff Who Sought to Arrest Him for Trivial Offense.

Leland, Miss., Feb. 25.—A mob
burned Sam Petty, a negro, who shot and killed Charles W. Kirkland, a deputy sheriff.

The negro, wanted for a trivial offense, was arrested by Kirkland.
Breaking from his captor, the negro fled to the outskirts of the town where he lived in a small cabin.

Officer Shot to Death by Black.

Not knowing the black was armed,
the officer knocked the door, being refused entrance, started to go in when the black emerged with a double-barreled shotgun leveled at Kirkland's head. Before Kirkland could draw his own weapon the negro fired both barrels. The officer dropped dead.

Irate citizens soon captured the negro and the news of his killing of the officer spread like wildfire. Soon a mob of 300 men had assembled from all parts of the county.

Burning Negro Leaps From Box.

A debate was held as to what revenge was to be meted out to the negro. It was finally decided to burn
the offender. He was accordingly
bound and placed in a dry goods box,
the inside packed with inflammables,
coal oil was poured on the box and the torch applied. The negro's fetters burning in two he leaped from the box screaming with agony. Instantly half a hundred pistols spoke
and the negro's body was soon in its death throes. The body was then taken and placed in the box again,
the torch was applied and in less than half an hour the body was reduced to ashes. No arrests are known to have been made.

WOMEN WIN AT PRIMARIES

Two Chicagoans, With Opposition,
Are Defeated.

Chicago, Feb. 25.—For the first time in the history of Chicago women are party nominees for aldermen. Seven women, three under the Progressive banner and four Socialists, were nominated at the primary election. All were without opposition. Two, both of whom sought Democratic nomi-
nations and who had strong opposition, were defeated. More than two-thirds of the registered women of Chicago
remained away from the polls at the aldermanic primaries. The total number of women who voted was 47,529,
or about 30 per cent. of the 158,524
qualified women. The total men's vote was 123,668, or slightly less than 30 per cent. of the registered total of 432,000 men. Of the women who voted, 33,381 were Democrats, 10,189
Republicans, 3,297 Progressives, and 662 Socialists.

Primary elections held in a number of towns in Illinois appear to have held little interest, especially for the newly enfranchised women voters.
Reports from several towns show that
in most instances the women declined to take a hand in nominating candidates for city and township offices.

Of 14,000 qualified voters at East St.
Louis only 49 men voted. Not a woman voted.

MRS. MCGILL BROKE DOWN

Gives the Real Facts In Regard to Her Case and Tells How She Suffered.

Jonesboro, Ark.—"I suffered a complete break down in health, some time ago," writes Mrs. A. McGill, from this place. "I was very weak and could not do any work. I tried different remedies, but they did me no good."

One day, I got a bottle of Cardui. It did me so much good, I was surprised, and took some more.

Before I took Cardui, I had headache and backache, and sometimes I would cry for hours. Now I am over all that, and can do all kinds of housework. I think it is the greatest medicine on earth."

In the past fifty years, thousands of ladies have written, like Mrs. McGill, to tell of the benefit received from Cardui.

Such testimony, from earnest women, surely indicates the great value of this tonic remedy, for diseases peculiar to women. Are you a sufferer? Yes?

Cardui is the medicine you need. We urge you to try it.

N. B.—Write to: Ladies' Advisory Dept., Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn., for Special Instructions, and 64-page book, "Home Treatment for Women," sent in plain wrapper, on request.

Try as you will, after an application, of Danderine, you cannot find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most, will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is immediate and amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable luster, softness and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all.

REAL HERO ABASHED

By MILDRED CAROLINE GOODRIDGE.

"Please, Ruth dear—it means so much to us!"
"But see the position it places me in, Myra, with Willis Talcott!"
"Write him all about it."
"No, no, never that!" dissented Ruth Borden positively. "He would never consent. Besides, to be frank, he does not like your brother, Herbert."

A slight pained shade crossed the brow of Miss Myra Joyce. She was not unused to hear her brother criticized. His home record had been no credit to him, he had joined the fastest set at college. Now he was coming home for a two weeks' vacation. His mother and sister doubted if he would remain there a day. They had heard something of a proposed pleasure jaunt with some wild young university bloods.

"We must head it off; we must manage to keep Herbert home and respectable until his father comes back from Europe," Mrs. Joyce had said. And then she and daughter had devised a great plot. Ruth was the bosom friend of Myra. They had sworn undying devotion one to the other. Now Ruth was put to the test. In plain words, knowing what a most charming enchantress Ruth was, Myra had asked her to charm the wayward Herbert.

"You can do it, Ruth darling," asserted Myra, "and it will be all an innocent flirtation. You can't hurt Herbert's heart permanently. You can keep him on good behavior until papa's iron rule is restored."

"That is, I am to try and make your brother fall in love with me?" propounded Ruth dubiously.

"N—no, not quite that, but you are to make the time pass so pleasantly that he will think your company a lasting joy."

"Well, I'll try. Only I hope Willis doesn't come home while this innocent flirtation, as you call it, is going on. He is dreadfully jealous!"

"Help! Help! Pull Me In."

So that end of the plot was arranged. Meantime the object of all this deep scheming and concern was speeding by rail to his home town, buoyed up over the assumption of an act of heroism that "would make the quiet denizens of Mayville sit up and take active notice!"

Circumstantially, this was what had happened to Herbert Joyce: There was another Herbert Joyce at a lake resort he had stopped at on his way home, a day laborer. The latter, by a daring swimming feat, had rescued four people caught in a storm in a leaking boat. A reporter had seized upon the Herbert Joyce registered at the hotel as the hero of the occasion. All over the country the news was flashed and the rescue credited to Joyce of the university, Joyce of Mayville.

The feather-brained Joyce of our story accepted the honor without quibble. Thus was it that he was greeted at his home town by honestly admiring neighbors. Even Ruth was in a way proud of him because he was the brother of her dearest girl friend.

"You see, there is something good in my boy, after all," said Mrs. Joyce. "And you must encourage him," dear Ruth, advised Myra.

Ruth was less embarrassed than bored when she accepted an invitation from young Joyce to take an automobile spin the next day. She had no fear in her mind that he would fall in love with her or become burdensome in his attentions—he was too full of himself to waste emotion and sentiment.

Like all egotists, he had almost come to believe that he was actually the great hero the news journals had lauded. When he was not describing impossible swimming feats he was boasting of his athletic pre-eminence on the college campus.

Ruth was very faithful to her promise to Myra. She was at the Joyce home most of the time. She congratulated herself that she was helping to do some good in the world. In her letters to her fiancé, Willis Talcott, however, she never so much as alluded to Herbert Joyce.

The gloss of hero worship after a few days began to wear off with Herbert. He was growing restive and talked of pressing notes received from his chums urging him to join them. Ruth exceeded herself in gra-

LOCAL WOMEN NOW A BIG ADVERTISER

When one of our women customers recently bought five bottles of Harmony Hair Beautifier to give to her friends for Christmas, she started all by herself a mighty big advertising campaign, because not only does each one of the women to whom she gave a bottle of the Beautifier now consider it indispensable for the proper care of the hair, but each of them has been the means of getting several of her friends to use it. As a consequence, if things keep on in this way for a few months longer, we will be selling more of it than all other hair preparations combined. Sprinkle a little Harmony Hair Beautifier on your hair each time before brushing it. Contains no oil; will not change color of hair, nor darken gray hair.

To keep hair and scalp dandruff-free and clean, use Harmony Shampoo. This pure liquid shampoo gives an instantaneous rich lather that immediately penetrates to every part of hair and scalp, insuring a quick, thorough cleansing. Washed off just as quickly, the entire operation takes only a few moments. Contains nothing that can harm the hair; leaves no harshness or stickiness—just a sweet cleanliness.

Both preparations come in odd-shaped, very ornamental bottles, with sprinkler tops. Harmony Hair Beautifier, $1.00. Harmony Shampoo, 50c. Both guaranteed to satisfy you in every way, or your money back. Sold only at the more than 7,000 Rexall Stores, and in this town only by us. Campbell & Son, 105 First St.

Uncovering Buried City.

Under the direction of the Italian minister of public instruction, the ancient city of Veii, near Rome, and the most famous of all buried cities, is to be excavated on a large scale. On various previous occasions the site has been tapped, the working being very limited, but sufficient to arouse curiosity concerning the mysteries of the Etruscans. Veii has been in the minds of people who have known about it for many generations, although doubt as to its existence has been expressed by various authors, but Dionysius, in speaking of the third war of Rome against it, says that it was the most powerful of the twelve cities of the Etruscan league.

NEW MILLINERY WILL PLEASE

Choice of Coloring Is So Wide That All May Select Their Favorite, and Be In Style.

In the new millinery there are some decided favorites of the spectrum, and so many changes are rung on the original schemes that all eyes and complexions will be becomingly placed—that is, if women are as clever as we think.

The all-black hat is a practical favorite, and will look equally well on blond and black tresses. If a touch of color is needed, there are countless ornaments in the shape of cabochons, fantasies, quills, buckles and odd trimmings that can be added to give brightness.

Many shades of blue will be used. Can you picture the glistening greenish blue of the peacock transferred to soft velvet and touched up with a dull gold? This is one of the favorite combinations. Then there is a great variety of darker blue, including the Copenhagen, navy, lapis-lazuli and silvery tones.

Mahogany browns are also very much in favor. Oak leaf, tobacco, seal, café au lait—which is coffee and milk—come next. These are excellent suggestions for the girl with the auburn hair.

Greens in the Russian and hunter's shade are coming into line. There are also some vivid shades provided, which will be known as turquoise, malachite, jade, empire and linden.

Generally speaking, the color combinations will be less bizarre and more artistic in their alliances. Many of the old paintings have inspired the milliners, and the results are a credit to the ideas.

KEEP TO THE LOOSE LINES

New Coats Designed for Slim Figures, Much as Are All the Prevailing Fashions.

To give even a more careless outline to the figure, there are new coats that hang from the shoulders to hips with slight fullness. They follow the line of the shoulder, but of no other part of the figure, and the long loose sleeves usually run to a point at the neck line. They are not the elephant's ear sleeve which some of the coats carry as well as many of the bodices, but they are loose enough to follow the general suggestion of the coat.

One of the newest varieties of this jacket has a thick cable cord run through the fullness about an inch below the waist line. The cord does not attempt to draw in the fullness or outline any curve of the figure; it is merely an ornament, and as such it should receive its due value. A dark blue suit, for instance, has a deep red cord tied in front with two tasseled ends; a black suit has a dark blue cord. It takes a slim figure to wear this new jacket, but why make that bromide statement? It begins and ends every fashion discussion.

FLOWERS SET OFF COSTUME

New Designs Are Novel and Beautiful and Return to Old Style Will Be Welcomed.

After refraining of late from wearing the buttonhole, the beauty and novelty of the new designs are tempting the devotee of pretty et ceteras to reconsider her decision.

A bunch of acorns and oak foliage made cleverly of leather and velvet is a pretty little novelty, and a knot of tiny dahlias arranged in an elongated form suggests the stately height of that favorite autumn plant.

Upon an evening dress the large simple flower still maintains its ascendancy, and orchids vie with roses for the first place in feminine favor.

Very bright pink and impossible blue everlasting flowers are a noticeable feature in some of the florists' windows, but they are not to be worn. Their province is to add brightness to the house.

Then are sent out in rustic baskets bunched with ribbons of the same pattern as the receptacles that hold lilies of the valley or any other growing blossoms.

BOWLER MODEL HAT

A quaint little bowler model in pure white felt. Resting on the brim at one side is a beautiful dull pink rose.

Even Skirt.

In measuring the length of a skirt, put on and use a yardstick. Measuring from the floor, mark around the hips with a light line of chalk at the top of the stick. Take from the yard the number of inches you wish it to come from the floor, and measuring the skirt directly down from the chalk, mark on all sides the number of inches you have chosen, you will easily obtain an even skirt length.

What Doctor Can Beat This?

In less than three months a physician of Portland, Me., has treated professionally five patients representing five successive generations of the same family, beginning with a centenarian and following in the direct line of descent down to her great-great-grandson. He first attended the old lady, who was ninety-nine years old, for senile gangrene resulting in her death. During her illness he was called on to prescribe for her daughter, aged seventy-five. Next this daughter's son, a florist, aged fifty, fell ill and required attention. Following him, a son, a clerk of twenty-seven, found himself in need of medical aid. And lastly to the clerk's wife was born a male child, whom the doctor was called upon to assist into the world, as he had been summoned to ease the great-great-grandmother's exit from it barely three months before.

TWO TELEPHONE SYSTEMS.

The farmers and some of the townspeople in this community are greatly aroused over the telephone situation and the recent raise in rates. They have a just cause and it is to be hoped that the result of their activities will be a readjustment that will be satisfactory to all. If the Dixon Home Telephone company can let us have telephones at a rental of a dollar a month, it would only be fair that we pay toll for all long distance calls. Or if they can cut off the tolls again and go back to the old dollar and a half rate with free use of the county lines, that will, of course, be satisfactory. The telephone company must be allowed to make enough money to pay dividends and to keep their property and service up to the highest standard. We would rather pay the money and get good service than save a little and get poor service. The telephone company takes the position that it is willing to go before the state utilities commission and let that body decide the debate, which seems fair, although it would not immediately relieve the situation, for the commission has affairs just like this all over the state and they might be a year or more getting around to Dixon. The telephone company declares it is only obeying the law and is compelled to charge the rates. It would not take long to have an interpretation of the law made and have this point cleared up. The commission could probably furnish a detailed explanation of this in a short time.

There is considerable talk among the farmers of an independent telephone line. They say that if the company will not accede to their demands they will form a company of their own. We do not think much of this plan, for if there is anything that causes trouble, expense and confusion it is two telephone systems in one community. It means just double 'phone rental for a great many people and is something that should be avoided. If there is absolutely no other way out of it and no amicable settlement can be made between the farmers and the present 'phone company, there may be nothing else to do, but we hope that the situation will not go that far. One good 'phone company that has all the business can afford to give much better service than two rival companies in the same field can hope to give combined. We hope the differences between the farmers and the telephone company can be adjusted in a more pleasant and less expensive manner.

THE HEALTH OF SCHOOLCHILDREN.

The report for 1912 of the medical officer of the British board of education has just been issued. It contains an exhaustive account of the measures which are being taken throughout the country to safeguard the health of schoolchildren. Uncleanliness still occupies a large share of the time and energy of the officers of the school medical service, but the returns show a decided and progressive improvement, and the grosser forms of uncleanliness are now rare as compared with the conditions that prevailed when medical inspection was instituted in 1908. There are about six million children in the public elementary schools. About 10 per cent suffer from serious defects of vision. Among the causes given are heredity, infectious diseases and neglect in obtaining early medical advice, together with eye-strain. From 1 to 3 per cent suffer from defective hearing; about 10 per cent have adenoids, inflamed tonsils or enlarged cervical lymph-nodes requiring surgical treatment; 1 per cent have ringworm; 1 per cent suffer from tuberculosis of readily recognizable form; from 1 to 2 per cent have heart disease; from 30 to 40 per cent have unclean heads or unclean bodies, and more than half the children are in need of dental treatment.

In five directions school hygiene has undergone evolution. There has been a steady improvement in the routine work of medical inspection, and ancillary undertakings. There is less "leakage," more following up and more accurate clinical examination. Secondly, there is fuller differentiation of abnormal children and a tendency on the part of authorities to modify the school curriculum in their behalf. Much time and labor are now being devoted to mentally defective, tuberculous, and stammering and frail or retarded children. Thirdly, there has been an enlargement of the conception of the sphere of influence of the school medical officers. Education authorities are finding that though they have been appointed in the first place merely to inspect children, they may fill a very useful place in the educational system. Fourthly, there has been a marked advance in respect to medical treatment both in quality and in quantity. Lastly, the intimate relation between school hygiene and education is becoming recognized and its application understood. The equipment of the school, the character of the teacher, the importance of physical exercise and manual work, the relation of the leaving child to the national insurance system, to industrial employment, to further education in secondary schools, and to its own home life, are now receiving attention.

Finding Fault

By WALT MASON

The kicking game will bring you fame, unpleasant, grim and ghostly, so call a halt if finding fault is what you're doing mostly. Some men seem born distressed, forlorn, then nothing ever pleases; in every cause they find the flaws, the spavins and diseases. They kick at home and when they roam about the town they grumble, and every talk they make's a knock, and every step a stumble. They scowl, they scowl, they hoot, they howl, at every forward movement; they hurt the town, and hold it down, and balk at each improvement. There is a trail of woe and wail where'er they've gallivanted; the booster hates such moldy skates and thinks they should be planted. They are a bore, the town grows sore beneath their ceaseless wiggings; the band will play some music gay when they have skipped the diggings. Just look around and note, cogs wound! how much the grouch is hated, then make a vow to clear your brow, and keep your bile abated. So call a halt if finding fault is now your daily pastime; let out a roar just one time more, and let that be the last time!

Irish Good Business Men.

Agricultural co-operation is organized in Ireland, through the efforts of Irishmen, in a way which brings experts from other countries to examine and imitate. The farming in County Kildare and thereabouts suffers not by comparison with any other district in the United Kingdom. And, in matters concerning the horse, Irish maintain, and are extending, their old supremacy. They have an unerring eye for his qualities; they will pick up a despised brute in an English sale-ring and make thousands by selling the progeny back to Englishmen. Let us, in all our discussions of Irish affairs, bear in mind the fact that the Irishmen may be and often is, a good man of business as well as an amusing companion and a first class soldier.

Hint for the Newly-Weds.

How many mothers instruct their daughters that they must try to love their husband's relatives just as well as they love their own? Very few—and many will assert that no such instruction should be given; but some of us think that it ought. It is a safe thing to do—for the chances are 10,000 to one that no girl could ever go so far as that, try as faithfully as she might. But she can surely learn to love her husband's family, and she will add immensely to his comfort by so doing. Their "ways" are doubtless very different from hers. Sometimes they receive her with coldness and suspicion; but by practice and kindness and loving attentions she can usually win them. It is her mother's part to teach her this patience and kindness before she is married. The art of being a good daughter-in-law is a noble one, and like all other arts it can, to a considerable extent, be taught.—Leslie's Weekly.

Reference Room for Women.

The Chicago public library has a study for women, which is intended for the accommodation of woman patrons of the library engaged in research, seeking assistance in the preparation of special subjects, and it is especially intended for the use of women voters. A special reference room for women has been opened in the main library. There are 250 volumes on political subjects.

DRUGS EXCITE YOUR KIDNEYS, USE SALTS

If your Back is aching or Bladder bothers, drink lots of water and eat less meat.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also, keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

DIXON OPERA HOUSE.

Rupert Hughes' farce, Excuse Me, which comes to the opera house on Thursday, March 5th, was called by the New York Herald a train-load of good, clean, infectious laughs. The action of the play takes place on a Pullman train, hence the piece has been dubbed, A Pullman carnival in three sections. The piece comes here with the distinction of a season's run at the Gaiety in New York and three months in Chicago at the Studebaker, and the cast seen here will be one of the strongest that could possibly be recruited from among the Broadway players.

Made the Parson Happy.

It was Dr. Cosmo Gordon Lang, archbishop of York, who, when he was bishop of Stepney, remarked, apropos of the children of the East end: "They are doing a great deal to rebuke the tendency of the clergy to become middle-aged in spirit—dull, morose and superior." And he told one of his favorite stories of an East end cleric who was feeling lifeless and disconsolate on setting out on his daily round of visits, when a little street urchin looked up at him with a cheerful eye and knowing smile, and said: "Ulo, young man! That greeting quite reassured the parson for the rest of the day," Dr. Lang declares.

Value of a Lawyer's Talk.

A young lawyer was defending an old convict on the charge of burglary in a state where the court rules allow each side one hour to address the jury. The young lawyer, somewhat nervous, consulted a veteran member of the bar who happened to be standing near. "How much time do you think I should take up in addressing the jury?" he asked in a rather pompous manner. "Take the full hour," was the gruff reply. "The full hour? Why, I intended to take only 15 minutes." "Take the full hour," repeated the old lawyer. "But why?" "Because the longer you talk the longer you will keep your client out of jail."—Ladies' Home Journal.

The New Baby.

Edwin Wallace Dunn was invited over to see the three-year-old son of Charles King and Lilah Rhodes the other day, who, by the way, has been dubbed Charles King, Jr. "And I suppose the baby looks exactly like Charles King?" Dunn was questioned upon his return to headquarters. "You're wrong," he answered, "he looks exactly like a cross between a broiled lobster and a pug dog."

Preacher's Mixup.

The following is said to have been a preacher's peroration: "We pursue the shadow; the bubble bursts, it leaves the ashes in our hands." A London preacher a short time ago invited "young men and women of all ages" to attend his meeting, which reminds one of the memorable exordium of the nervous curate: "Young ladies, or perhaps I should say young women, for I wish to embrace you all." Nervousness is, indeed, accountable for some curious mistakes and laughable incidents. The preacher must have been nervous who gave out this text: "Heaviness may endure for joy, but night cometh in the morning."

AMERICAN SLAIN BY MEXICANS; ORDERED FREED

Clemente Vergara, U. S. Citizen, Hanged by Federals Near Hidalgo.

KILLED BEFORE ORDER CAME

Villa Refuses to Permit Removal of Benton's Body, Although Great Britain Has Demanded That He Do So.

Laredo, Tex., Feb. 26.—Mexican federals have murdered Clemente Vergara, an American citizen, near Hidalgo, Mexico, according to information received here. Vergara was taken prisoner by the federals a few days ago, but his release was demanded and the federal commander at Pedras Negras had ordered him freed.

Later he was found hanged on a tree near Hidalgo, and it is believed that he was executed after the order for his release had been issued.

Federal Gunboat Surrenders.

Nogales, Sonora, Feb. 25.—The federal gunboat Tampico, with crew, voluntarily surrendered to the constitutionalist officials at Topolobampo, say official dispatches received from the south. This gives the insurgents their first armed vessel.

Villa Refuses to Give Up Body.

Washington, Feb. 25.—What General Villa purposes to do about the request of the United States that he deliver up the body of William S. Benton, British subject, executed by him at Juarez, was an open question today.

Secretary Bryan accepted a message from the constitutionalist chief to consular agent Carothers at Juarez as a promise that the body would be turned over to American authorities. The message said the body would be delivered, "but not at this time."

State department officials, however, made public this announcement later: "American consul at Chihuahua reports that Villa declines to deliver Benton's body, but will permit widow or relatives to visit cemetery with American representatives; that for their benefit he will order exhumation of body, which then will be reinterred in grave from which it is removed."

From the character of the wounds in Benton's body physicians will be able to say whether Benton was killed by a pistol shot, as his friends contend, or by a firing squad, as Villa asserts.

Developments were many in the situation that has arisen out of the killing of Benton. Secretary Bryan asked American consular representative at Nogales to confer with General Carranza about the affair. The secretary talked with Acting Chairman Shively of the senate foreign relations committee and twice with President Wilson.

Consul Letcher reported his inability to locate Gustav Bauch in Chihuahua, although Villa had been quoted as saying that Bauch was transferred from Juarez to the Chihuahua jail.

The senate foreign relations committee met today to consider the Mexican problem.

Lewis Sees Joint Invasion.

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 25.—Joint action by the United States, England, Germany and France to restore peace in Mexico, similar to that taken by the powers during the Boxer troubles in China, is not a remote possibility in the opinion of Senator James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois, who came to Kansas City to address the Bar association at its annual banquet in the Hotel Baltimore.

Villa Defies U. S. and Britain.

Chihuahua, Mex., Feb. 25.—General Villa has given out the following statement to the press:

"Representations have been made to me by the American consul of this city to the effect that I must at once give orders that William S. Benton's body be delivered into the hands of his family. This I will not do. I told Mr. Marion F. Letcher, the American consul, that I was very willing to have representatives of Great Britain, the United States or Benton's family come down and see the body which I buried in the local national cemetery, but out of respect to the dead, I could not permit the body to leave Mexico.

"Benton's body was brought to Chihuahua on my own train, encased in a fine coffin, and was buried next day with all honors, including services of followers, etc., and a cross to mark the grave."

The 18 Americans and other foreigners ordered deported from Chihuahua by General Villa will be sent from Chihuahua to Juarez on today's train. All have been in the cavalry of General Villa's army.

WHITE SLAVE LAW HIT

Supreme Court Favors Narrow Construction of Act.

Women Transported on Road Not Subject to Commerce Body Acts as Bar to Prosecution.

Washington, Feb. 25.—The sentences imposed on Charles Wilson, alias Charles Willard, and Catherine Wilson, alias "Zoe" Willard, who were convicted in Chicago of violating the Mann white slave act, were affirmed by the Supreme court of the United States. The record showed that they had entered into an agreement with a man named Cordiner and had given him $11 to take two girls from Milwaukee to Chicago for immoral purposes.

After their conviction by the district court the defendants obtained a writ of error to the Supreme court attacking the constitutionality of the Mann act and also contending that the record in their trials was irregular.

The constitutionality of the law, the court held, had been affirmed in previous decisions.

In deciding the case the court held that the mode of transportation had no bearing on the offense so long as there was interstate transportation of girls for immoral purposes.

"It is insisted that the offense was not fully proved because there was nothing to show that the defendants either directed or knew how the girls were to come from Milwaukee to Chicago," said the decision: "whether in a private vehicle or through the instrumentality of a common carrier. But in our opinion, in order to constitute an offense under the act, it is not essential that the transportation be by common carrier.

"The contention that the defendants were not within the prohibition of the act because they did not control or instruct Cordiner in the choice of means of conveyance is not worthy of serious consideration."

KIN OF STEPHENSON WEDS

Senator's Grandson Marries Miss Florence Carpenter.

Menominee, Mich., Feb. 25.—With orchids, American beauties, Bulgarian roses, tulips, daffodils and other varicolored flowers as a background, the wedding of Miss Florence L. Carpenter, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Spencer Carpenter of Menominee, to Howard Stephenson George of Marinette, grandson of Senator Isaac Stephenson of Wisconsin, was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents. One hundred and fifty guests were present. The service was read by Rev. A. W. Bill, a retired Presbyterian minister.

Miss Carpenter wore a gown of white brocade crepe de chine fashioned over satin, with court train and trimmings of point lace, and a veil of point lace caught with orange blossoms. She carried lilies of the valley and gardenias.

MINER GUILTY OF MURDER

William Wilson of Illinois Convicted of Killing T. A. Logan.

Cairo, Ill., Feb. 25.—William Wilson, a miner, was found guilty of the murder of Thomas A. Logan, special officer for the Mobile & Ohio Railroad company, by a jury and given the death penalty. Logan was killed January 13 while leading a group of other officers in a search for copper wire thieves. He was a nephew of Gen. John A. Logan.

TRIBUNAL GRANTS BECKER NEW TRIAL

Gotham Police Lieutenant Under Death Sentence, Given Another Chance.

FOUR GUNMEN ARE TO DIE

Appeal of Men Who Were Convicted of Actually Shooting Herman Rosenthal Were Denied and Must Die in Electric Chair.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 25.—Former Lieut. Charles Becker of the New York police force, now in the death house at Sing Sing, under sentence to be electrocuted for the murder of Gambler Herman Rosenthal was granted a new trial on Tuesday. The decision was handed down by the state court of appeals on a plea made by counsel for Becker in December, 1913, and reversed the conviction.

Judge Werner dissented from the decision of his colleagues reversing the conviction which was reached before Justice Goff.

There were 25 legal points made in the appeal for Becker last December. It was the contention of Attorney Palmer before the court that Samuel Schepps was an accomplice. The evidence that he had interviewed Becker at the latter's home subsequent to his arrest was a fabrication, he maintained.

Mr. Palmer also contended that Schepps's testimony was not corroborated within the meaning of the law. He also declared there had been a violation of the constitution in Becker's case in that his client had not had a fair and impartial trial.

Exception to the opening address of the prosecuting attorney was also taken.

Four Gunmen Must Die.

The appeals of the four young gunmen, who were convicted of actually shooting Herman Rosenthal to death were denied and they must die in the electric chair.

The gunmen, who must go to the chair are: Harry Horowitz, alias "Gyp the Blood"; Louis Rosenberg, alias "Lefty Louie"; Frank Cirofici, alias "Dago Frank"; and Frank Mueller, alias "Whitey Lewis."

These men were convicted of shooting Herman Rosenthal to death in front of the Hotel Metropole, near Forty-second street and Broadway, in New York City, on the night of July 16, 1912.

The Great Essential.

A twelve-year-old boy went into a shoe store. "What can I do for you?" asked the salesman. "I want to buy a pair of slippers, size 9, to give to my pa on his birthday." "What price slippers do you want?" "I don't mind the price," said the boy, "but please have the soles thin and soft."

Take Soda for Acid Stomach or Indigestion—Try It

Indigestion, says a noted authority is not caused by a lack of digestive juices, but by an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach which promotes food fermentation thus resulting in food poisoning.

Then our meals sour in the stomach and bowels like garbage in a can, forming acid fluids and gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon, then we get that heavy, lumpy feeling in the chest; we eructate food, belch gas and have heartburn, flatulence, water-brash or nausea.

He tells us that to instantly neutralize these stomach acids and stop food fermentation we must get a package of 10 grain Sodagen tablets at any pharmacy and take one tablet any time followed by a tumbler of water which immediately settles the stomach; absorbs the gases and sweetens the entire digestive system.

He states that men and women who can trace their disordered stomachs and indigestion to acidity should not hesitate to take this harmless antacid at any time, as it is simply a compound of Soda, Magnesia and Calcium Carbonate U. S. P.

Practically All Sheep Sold As Feeders are Grown in the West

By Professor W. C. Coffey, Animal Husbandry, University of Illinois.

It must be obvious to everyone that the one thing which determines whether a sheep or lamb belongs to the feeder class, is condition. Whenever sheep are too low in condition to suit the needs of the packer they fall into the feeder class, unless they be extremely coarse in quality or weakened in vitality because of disease or advanced age.

The heavy run of feeder sheep occurs in the months of September, Oc-

and in such small numbers that they cannot be listed as belonging to the feeder class. Experience has taught sheep breeders that the thin natives on our large markets are, for reasons already mentioned, rarely profitable in the feed lot. Lambs are the most important of the recognized sub-class of feeder sheep.

Feeder Lambs.

Feeder lambs are those thin in flesh left after sorting out those in a band in suitable condition for the mutton trade. A great percentage of the feed-

tober and November, when rangemen are reducing their flocks and preparing for the winter months. However, buyers are constantly looking for thrifty, underfinished stuff and a limited number of feeder sheep go out from the markets every week in the year. As the shearing season approaches buyers of feeders from Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Ohio make strong bids for well-wooled lambs. Such lambs usually make large gains immediately after being shorn, and thus are made prime in condition in a short period.

Practically all the sheep sold as feeders are grown on the western ranges. Occasionally a few natives are taken out as feeders, but so rarely er lambs reaching the markets fall into that class because of certain influences under which they have been placed. It may be that they have had an unequal chance with those in highest condition in the band on account of not being so well nourished by their dams; they may have been born too late to reach that degree of condition and weight demanded by the packer; or, they may have been held too long at the shipping place on the range or on the road by poor train service without the necessary amount of feed, so that the deterioration in condition placed what would have been mutton lambs in the feeder class.

The grades recognized on the market are fancy selected, choice, good, medium, common or inferior.

The House Shop Is a Proper Adjunct to the Successful Farm

By A. W. Jamison, Agricultural Extension, University of Illinois.

At the present time a farmer feels he must have the proper tools with which to handle his farm, and in addition some kind of a shop in which his tools may be kept in order. His implements and tools must be up-to-date, and he is constantly buying new ones. The average farmer's bill for small tools and sundry supplies alone would, if he figured it up, astound him. On almost any farm it will total several hundred dollars, and this does not include any horse-drawn implements.

How about the farmer's wife? If all her household tools combined cost $200 she is a lucky woman, and far better supplied than the average. Yet her tools are used daily and weekly, while many of the farm tools are used but a few days in the year. The farmer sees a definite money return from his farm tools and is willing to buy them. The house tools do not produce a visible money return and their value is underestimated in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred.

On the basis of frequent use, or on the basis of time saved for Mrs. Farmer, a dollar spent in the house yields a greater return than one spent on the farm. The woman whose labor is lightened by machinery has more time for self-improvement, for giving proper attention to the children and for neighborhood cultivation, all of which are more important in the long run than the production of farm crops, be they grains, grasses or animals.

The house shop should have a small power plant, preferably a gasoline engine of electric motor. The bulk of the muscular work can be done by their aid. Get a power washer, wringer, and mangle and wash day will lose three-fourths of its terrors. Gasoline at 20 cents or even 50 cents is far cheaper than muscle and nerve tissues. Your engine can be rigged to pump water into a pressure tank and supply the entire house with running water, both hot and cold. The hot water means a little additional expense for a heater, but good heaters installed permanently in the base are now to be had. The blessings of plenty of hot and cold water are not to be measured in dollars and cents. The income in comfort and labor saved will be 100 per cent on the investment every year. A good bath room fully equipped can be supplied with water, and this will help to preserve the health of every member of the family. No one realizes the loss in a year due to sickness, not only the cost of medicine and doctor bills, but the decrease in efficiency of a person when only slightly ailing, to say nothing of the heavy loss of time on the part of the patient and the nurse when someone is sick in bed.

If no electric lighting plant is near at hand the gasoline engine may be given a small dynamo to drive, a few cells of storage battery will light the house and save all the disagreeable work of lamp care. Also the barns and other buildings can be lighted with perfect safety, and at very little additional expense. Until one has tried barn work under such conditions its benefits are almost inconceivable.

A vacuum cleaner is as necessary in a farm house as in a city house. Your electric outfit will operate it, or it can be connected directly to an exhaust pump driven by the engine. There should be a room especially for the household machinery, preferably just off the kitchen, in which all tools can be permanently housed. These include the churn and the cream separator.

If in addition to the above the kitchen tools are brought to a high state of efficiency Mrs. Farmer will be more than ever envied by her city sister. An adequate supply of boiling water for washing dishes is the greatest labor-saving tool in our up-to-date farm house. The dishes are quickly and easily washed and if put into proper racks and flushed with boiling water after washing will be cleaner than if dried with any dish towel ever made. Power dish washers are on the market and our "shop kitchen" might well be fitted with one of them.

Proper cooking appliances are lacking on most farms. For winter, a range is highly desirable, but in the middle of summer it is an instrument of torture. For hot weather a gasoline or kerosene stove ought to be in every farm kitchen, and it ought to be the very best obtainable. If in addition to a good fireless cooker is purchased and mastered in detail of operation, a large saving of time, labor and fuel will be accomplished with a distinct gain in the quality of the food prepared, to say nothing of the fact that in many cases cheaper materials may be used.

It ought to be recompense for any man to feel that he is making easier the heavy burden that falls on his wife when living on a farm, but if he is not civilized enough for that inducement to operate, let him consider the material benefits to be derived. The house will run more smoothly if the woman at the head of it is kept from utter exhaustion with the nervous tension that goes with it. The farmer will then go to his work of operating the farm feeling better and doing better, and it is the actual farm operations that produce the definite money return. The children will be better and will do better work at school—and the father of a family, however much he may scorn "book-learning," wants his children to stand well at school. The house will be a more pleasant place in every way. Guests will be more frequent, the house-mother will be so proud of her scientific housekeeping that she will want every one to see her equipment.

PREACHER ADVISED FERTILIZING.

(Journal of Agriculture and Standard Farmer, Dec. 5, 1913.)

Thinking it not out of the scope of his work to talk over farm problems with the members of his congregation, a preacher in Morgan county, Ohio, frequently advanced ideas which he thought would be of value to his people. Among other things last spring, he encouraged the use of a good grade of fertilizer on the corn ground which was to be planted in that community. That his advice had a good effect is explained by one of the farmers himself who said, "We have a preacher who said we ought to use fertilizers. That is something I had never done, but I thought I would try. So I bought enough of a good fertilizer so that I could put on from 300 to 400 pounds to each acre. The fertilizer cost me $20 per ton or about $3 or $4 an acre. Now, I have been getting about 40 bushels of corn to the acre in the past, while I am sure the yield will go up to 60 or 70 bushels this year. I am getting a good return for the $3 or $4 I invested in fertilizers for each acre. I am ahead at least 20 bushels of corn for each acre, and this ought to be worth $12 or $15. I am convinced of one thing and that is, it pays to use fertilizer if you get the right kind and buy it at the right place."

WHAT A FAYETTE COUNTY (OHIO) BOY HAS DONE.

"Raising 111.76 bushels of shelled corn per acre."

In producing a high yielding acre of corn, I considered three main points: First, the soil and its wanting elements which are to be supplied by fertilizer; second, the seed corn, and third, the cultivation of the crop.

In the fall of 1912, seed corn of Duneth Yellow Dent variety was selected. This was guarded from severe freezing during the winter and tested for germination late in February. The ears standing this test were carefully selected and mated to one type which aimed at depth of kernel and amount of oil. These special selected ears were shelled and the shelled corn graded by hand picking the grains, one by one. This was slow work, but it insured the seed planted to be of nearly perfect quality.

Turning the soil, I selected an acre underlying a timothy sod with a scattering of clover. The soil was a black loam. During the winter the ground was covered with manure. Late in the winter when the ground was not frozen, I cut the sod and manure with a heavy cutter. This pulverized the sod, so as to make it available later on for the plant roots. I broke the ground eight and one-half inches deep in March. Close behind the plow I followed with a drag to keep the moisture. After the floods and other heavy rains of March and April, the ground was harrowed to conserve the moisture. On May 8 the soil was double cut, harrowed and dragged. On the following day 320 pounds of fertilizer, analyzing one per cent. ammonia, six per cent. available phosphoric acid and eight per cent. potash, was drilled into the seed bed.

The same day the corn was planted, drilled in rows three feet two inches apart. All corn ruined by wire worms was promptly replanted. Later a frost killed this replanted corn when but a few inches high. As it was too late to replant, I reset plants from a reserve plot of corn plants.

In the cultivation, a harrow used soon after corn came through ground, and five plowings, served to conserve moisture and at the same time keep the ground loose. After the second cultivation I aimed at shallow plowing.

In July the corn was suckered and about the same time hoed.

On July 6 a very severe windstorm nearly ruined the acre. On the 8th and 9th much time was spent in an attempt to straighten and prop up the twisted and broken stalks. This made it possible for many bushels of corn to mature.

All smutty stalks were doped with a mixture of fungicides on July 17. A second application proved successful. Also all tassels were cut from smutty and barren stalks.

No other work was done to the crop until hushing, in October. The yield was 111.76 bushels of shelled corn, all of which was in a matured and marketable condition.

In conclusion, I think that the one big factor in the cultivation, from start to finish, was holding the moisture. (Signed) WILLARD C. KIRK.

WHAT IT ALL MEANT

By HAROLD CARTER.

To Clarice it seemed the most amazing thing in the world. Only three weeks before marriage had been the farthest thing from her thoughts. Of course, she had hoped to be married some day, as every girl does. But "some day" seems any day when one is only twenty-three.

And now she was engaged. And to Richard Littlefield, the famous editor of the most famous, though not the most widely circulated magazine in America. Littlefield was only thirty-four, but when old Granger died, during the previous year, he had at once been selected for his position, and had filled it uncommonly well.

The wife of Richard Littlefield! Why, Clarice's father had taken the magazine for years and sworn by it. As Littlefield's wife she would meet everybody who was of the least—and most—consequence in every field of art.

It had happened very simply. Richard had come to stay at the little summer hotel next door, and he had met Clarice, and they had loved each other. That was all she knew about it. Clarice would explain to her inquiring friends.

And when Richard went away he bent down and whispered that he was coming back for her soon—as soon as he could make arrangements. This was September, and they hoped to be married at Christmas.

Nevertheless, Clarice's happiness had not been untinted with distress. Though Richard talked like any ordinary man, she knew that his mind was one of the most brilliant in America. And she, with her poor education—a mere high school one—how could she make a fit wife for Richard?

Clarice had, indeed, surreptitiously endeavored to improve her education from the first day she met Richard, but she gave it up in despair. The task was too big a one to be completed by Christmas. She had also, because her widowed mother was not well off, tried to improve her culinary knowledge, so that they could dispense with "help," but after meeting and loving Richard the cook-book went into the attic, and Clarice brooded.

She was miserable. She feared every minute that she would say something foolish. O, if he should discover the profundity of her ignorance!

Then it was that an idea came into her head so staggering that it took complete possession of her. She would write a story anonymously and have it accepted for Richard's magazine!

"How do people get stories accepted?" she had asked him once.

"Why, they try and try, and never say die," he answered.

When he was gone Clarice set herself laboriously to work upon her plot. It was a love story, of course, and the heroine was very much like Clarice, just as the hero was like Richard. With trembling fingers Clarice dropped the precious missive in the letter-box, and then she waited.

On the fifth morning a long envelope came to her. Clarice's heart beat high. She opened it. Out tumbled her story, and, inside the folded pages was a printed notice as follows:

"The editors of 'The Leviathan' regret that, after careful consideration, they are unable to use the MS which you have so kindly submitted."

There was not even a name signed to it.

Clarice spent that afternoon in her room crying. She did not care about the story, but she knew that she would never make a wife for Richard.

Later that day hope revived. The next morning the village stationer got a fresh order for foolscap. Two days afterward a second story was posted. This time the hero was still more like Richard, but the heroine was not in the least like Clarice. Clarice was blonde and petite, and the heroine, Ada Maltravers, was tall, brunette, and statuesque.

Evidently this sort of heroine also failed to meet the approbation of the story-hearted editor, for in four days' time Ada Maltravers was back on Clarice's hands.

"CASCARETS" RELIEVE SICK, SOUR STOMACH

Move Acids, Gases and Clogged Waste from Liver and Bowels

Get a 10-cent box now.

That awful sourness, belching of acid and foul gases; that pain in the pit of the stomach, the heartburn, nervousness, nausea, bloating after eating, dizziness and sick headache, means a disordered stomach, which cannot be regulated until you remove the cause. It isn't your stomach's fault. Your stomach is as good as any.

Try Cascarets; they immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter and poison from the bowels. Then your stomach trouble is ended. A Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box from any drug store will keep your stomach sweet; liver and bowels regular for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

Had Him Cornered.

A newly elected officer in one of the prominent New York publishing houses is having the following story told at his expense: Shortly after the announcement of his election he met half a dozen of his colleagues at the Players one noon, and they all sat down together for luncheon. Congratulations were extended, and he accepted them gracefully, as was becoming in one of his position. Luncheon was ordered. "And do you sign checks, too?" inquired one of the number. "Oh, yes," came the ready answer. Whereupon six luncheon checks were thrust upon him with a chorus of "Then sign these." He signed them.

Why Cats on Vessels.

People often wonder why seafaring men are so fond of taking cats with them on a voyage. This is explained by two circumstances. Marine insurance does not cover damage done to cargo by the depredations of rats; but if the owner of the damaged goods can prove that ship was sent to sea unfurnished with a cat, he can recover damages from the shipmaster. Again, a ship found at sea with no living creature on board is considered a derelict, and is forfeited to the admiralty, the finders, or the king. It has often happened that, after a ship has been abandoned, some domestic animal—a dog, or bird, or most frequently, a cat—has saved the vessel from being considered as a derelict.

Silenced.

A New York politician, stump speaking in a neighboring city, was several times interrupted by a man who kept shouting, "Liar! Liar!" Finally the politician said: "If the gentleman at the back of the hall who is so anxious that the audience should know his name will write it on a slip of paper and hand it to the chairman instead of bawling it at the top of his voice he will save himself a lot of trouble." But the interrupter kept his peace and his identity.

MILLERS WIN BY RULING

Supreme Court of U. S. O. K.'s "Bleached Flour."

High Tribunal Declares That Mixture Can't Be Condemned Unless Shown to Be Harmful.

Washington, Feb. 25.—Food manufacturers and millers throughout the country won a decisive victory over the government when the Supreme court held that federal inspectors could not condemn under the pure food law "bleached flour" unless they proved that the flour contained enough poisonous ingredients added in bleaching to make the flour injurious to health.

Officials of the department of agriculture contended that adding any quantity of poisonous ingredients was in violation of the law. They concentrated their efforts to have this principle established in the bleached flour case, because the decision will be applicable to every other proceeding involving an article of food claimed to contain poisonous or deleterious ingredients.

In announcing the decision Justice Day pointed out that the government only complained that 1.8 parts to 1,000,000 of a poisonous character was added by bleaching. He held that every word of the pure food law prohibiting in interstate commerce a food if it contained "any added poisonous or other added deleterious ingredient which may render such article injurious to health," must be given its true meaning.

"If it cannot by any possibility, when the facts are reasonably considered, injure the health of any consumer," said the justice, "such flour, though having a small addition of poisonous or deleterious ingredient, may not be condemned by the act."

The principal effect of the decision, officials said, would be to require much more expert testimony in practically every case the government prosecutes for violation of the pure food law, and consequently the winning of a much smaller percentage of suits.

MAY BE NEW RUSS ENVOY

Representative W. G. Sharp of Ohio Slated for St. Petersburg Post.

Washington, Feb. 25.—In order to enlarge the scope of the federal reserve system the organization committee issued rules and regulations prescribing conditions under which state banks and trust companies may enter the system and buy stock in the reserve banks to be organized.

The committee decided any state bank or trust company may make application for right to subscribe for stock in the federal reserve bank or organized or to be organized in its locality.

Provision is also made in the new regulations for state banks and trust companies to become members of the federal reserve system by first being converted into national banks. Where such conversion is completed before the expiration of 60 days after the passage of the federal reserve act, these banks will be given until February 23, 1914, to accept the provisions of the act.

Atwood, Ohio aviator. Atwood recently proposed a trip around the world with Miss Ruth L. Satterthwaite of Reading, Pa., as his bride. Miss Harris alleges she lost her position after it became known she had promised to marry Atwood. Atwood denies the charges made by the girl.

BOAT RAMS U. S. WARSHIP

British Steamer Crashes Into the Ohio.

New Orleans, Feb. 25.—Two of the six-inch guns of the battleship Ohio were damaged when the British steamer Atherton rammed the port side of the warship. The damage was said to be slight. A coal lighter alongside the warship was smashed. A board of inquiry will investigate the damage to the Ohio. Those aboard the freighter said the steering gear was disarranged.

After Millionaire as Slave.

San Francisco, Feb. 25.—A warrant was issued here by the United States district attorney for the arrest of J. Parker Whitney, millionaire clubman and bon vivant, charged with violating the Mann "white slave" act. Whitney was at Rockland, Cal., on his father's $3,000,000 ranch.

Inexpensive Son-in-Law.

The old gentleman showed a good deal of displeasure. "It seems to me," he exclaimed testily, "rather presumptuous for a youth in your position to ask for my daughter's hand! Can you advance any good reason why I should give my consent?"

"Certainly, sir!" promptly replied the suitor.

"What?" pressed the old man.

"I am comparatively modest and economical in my personal expenditure," replied the suitor, "and I think, sir, that, altogether, you will find me less costly to maintain than almost any other son-in-law you could select."

Reading Between the Lines.

To get the good of the library in the school of life you must bring into it something better than a mere bookish taste. You must bring the power to read between the lines, behind the words, beyond the horizon of the printed page. Philip's question to the chamberlain of Ethiopia was crucial: "Understandest thou what thou readest?" I want books not to pass the time, but to fill it with beautiful thoughts and images, to enlarge my world, to give me new friends in the spirit, to purify my ideals and make them clear, to show me the local color of unknown regions and the bright stars of universal truth.—Henry Van Dyke.

Our Latin American Trade.

Exports from the United States to Latin-American countries have increased from $108,000,000 in 1900 to $321,000,000 in 1913, a gain of 197 per cent. Imports from them increased 171 per cent. in the same period. Exports to other parts of the world increased 67 per cent. The department of commerce in a statement says: "The most rapid gains in the exports during this period occurred in the trade with Argentina and Brazil. The value of merchandise exported to Argentina in 1900 was $11,500,000, and in 1913 over $52,750,000; to Brazil, in 1900, $1,500,000, and in 1913, $42,666,000. Cuba showed a marked gain."

What Worried the Boy. Douglas Mallach, author and woodsman, tells this story of his little son Donald. The two were watching a moving picture melodrama and the hero had suffered severely in an explosion. One of the workmen dropped his shovel and lent a hand to carry the injured man to a place of safety. Donald appeared much troubled. His father asked the reason. "Oh, papa, they went away and forgot all about the shovel!"

He Found Out. Mr. Pinchpenny had a habit of getting professional services free whenever he needed them by working some sort of a dodge or other. Not long ago he met his doctor on the street. "Doctor Goodfellow," he said, "I know a man who is suffering agonies from neuralgia. At times it is so bad he simply howls with the pain. What would you do in that case?" "Well, I don't know," was the doctor's prompt reply. "I suppose I should howl with pain too."

PLACE FOR THE BOOKS

NO HOUSE COMPLETE WITHOUT PROVISION FOR THEM.

Practical Idea, Which Can Be Made to Do Double Duty, Is Shown—Cretone-Covered Shelves Will Be Found Useful.

By ETHEL DAVIS SEAL.

One can imagine a house without pictures more readily than one can imagine even a single room without books. Books stand for culture and education in our lives, for beauty and decoration in our homes; and the two facts are inseparable, in that the books, together with their keeping places, are a sure index to their owner's character.

And you can't fool the public about your books, either. Books have a way of telling tales—other than the stories they hold. People know whether they are loved books or not; they know if they are books for show or delight—both from what the books tell them, and where the books are.

The first illustration shows a practical suggestion for a keeping place for books, and which does double duty as a seat as well. This idea could be carried out for the living room, hall or bedroom. It can be made of boards and painted to match the woodwork; or a large packing box of just the right proportions might answer, if one's judgment approved it. The cushion is of hair and is three inches thick. If hair costs more than one cares to spend, upholsterer's cotton would be comfortable and serviceable.

Sometimes bookshelves can be made out of faulty boards and covered entirely with cretone, as shown in the second drawing. The ends and, if necessary, the top are covered plainly with the material, tacked on by means of upholsterer's tacks. Curtains to match are then hung at the front.

And so, if you don't love books enough to have a lot lying around loose, and are too old to learn (!) train your children to, and you will soon be sure to find a call to conceal all sorts of attractive little keeping places for books—and here are quite a number of ideas right to your hand.—New York Press.

BEDROOM DESK MOST USEFUL

Some Remarkably Handsome Designs, Though Expensive, Are Offered to Prospective Buyers.

The bedroom desk fittings have always been more or less of a problem, as the usual brass sets seem a little heavy for a dainty pink or blue chintz hung boudoir. This year there are ivory colored sets of enameled wood which have a latticed pattern for the trimming which shows a bit of a brownish cast through it. They have more character than the plain white sets, and yet add rather than detract from the daintiness of the room. Silver which matches either the striped dresser silver or the engraved patterns can be matched for the desk fittings. Complete sets with blotter, clock and all the many useful and useless articles possibly run as high as $175. The new clocks are really lovely. They are shaped like half an orange and lie flat on the desk with the curved part up and holding the face of the clock. One does instinctively look down when writing, and it save time instead of making a conscious effort to look at a clock. But aside from that they are quite an addition to the pretty desk fixtures.

Dancing Frocks.

Smocking trims one of the season's most dainty dancing school frocks for the very small girl. The plain undershirt is attached to a skeleton lining and over it hangs the tunic, shorter in the front than in the back, to give the fashionable silhouette, says the Philadelphia North American. The fullness at the back and over the shoulder is held in with smocking, and the twisted silk cord encircles the waist and is loosely knotted in the back. Soft silk, chiffon or muslin is equally pretty for this little model.

Practically All Sheep Sold As Feeders are Grown in the West

By Professor W. C. Coffey, Animal Husbandry, University of Illinois.

IT MUST be obvious to everyone that the one thing which determines whether a sheep or lamb belongs to the feeder class, is condition. Whenever sheep are too low in condition to suit the needs of the packer they fall into the feeder class, unless they be extremely coarse in quality or weakened in vitality because of disease or advanced age.

The heavy run of feeder sheep occurs in the months of September, October and November, when rangemen are reducing their flocks and preparing for the winter months. However, buyers are constantly looking for thrifty, underfinished stuff and a limited number of feeder sheep go out from the markets every week in the year. As the shearing season approaches buyers of feeders from Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Ohio make strong bids for well-wooled lambs. Such lambs usually make large gains immediately after being shorn, and thus are made prime in condition in a short period.

FANCY SELECTED FEEDER LAMBS.

Practically all the sheep sold as feeders are grown on the western ranges. Occasionally a few natives are taken out as feeders, but so rarely and in such small numbers that they cannot be listed as belonging to the feeder class. Experience has taught sheep breeders that the thin natives on our large markets are, for reasons already mentioned, rarely profitable in the feed lot. Lambs are the most important of the recognized sub-class of feeder sheep.

Feeder Lambs.

Feeder lambs are those thin in flesh left after sorting out those in a band in suitable condition for the mutton trade. A great percentage of the feeder lambs reaching the markets fall into that class because of certain influences under which they have been placed. It may be that they have had an unequal chance with those in highest condition in the band on account of not being so well nourished by their dams; they may have been born too late to reach that degree of condition and weight demanded by the packer; or, they may have been held too long at the shipping place on the range or on the road by poor train service without the necessary amount of feed, so that the deterioration in condition placed what would have been mutton lambs in the feeder class.

The grades recognized on the market are fancy selected, choice, good, medium, common or inferior.

PREACHER ADVISED FERTILIZING.

(Journal of Agriculture and Standard Farmer, Dec. 5, 1913.)

Thinking it not out of the scope of his work to talk over farm problems with the members of his congregation, a preacher in Morgan county, Ohio, frequently advanced ideas which he thought would be of value to his people. Among other things last spring, he encouraged the use of a good grade of fertilizer on the corn ground which was to be planted in that community. That his advice had a good effect is explained by one of the farmers himself who said, "We have a preacher who said we ought to use fertilizers. That is something I had never done, but I thought I would try. So I bought enough of a good fertilizer so that I could put on from 300 to 400 pounds to each acre. The fertilizer cost me $20 per ton or about $3 or $4 an acre. Now, I have been getting about 40 bushels of corn to the acre in the past, while I am sure the yield will go up to 60 or 70 bushels this year. I am getting a good return for the $3 or $4 I invested in fertilizers for each acre. I am ahead at least 20 bushels of corn for each acre, and this ought to be worth $12 or $15. I am convinced of one thing and that is, it pays to use fertilizer if you get the right kind and buy it at the right place."

WHAT A FAYETTE COUNTY (OHIO) BOY HAS DONE.

"Raising 111.76 bushels of shelled corn per acre."

In producing a high yielding acre of corn, I considered three main points: First, the soil and its wanting elements which are to be supplied by fertilizer; second, the seed corn, and third, the cultivation of the crop.

In the fall of 1912, seed corn of Duneth Yellow Dent variety was selected. This was guarded from severe freezing during the winter and tested for germination late in February. The ears standing this test were carefully selected and mated to one type which aimed at depth of kernel and amount of oil. These special selected ears were shelled and the shelled corn graded by hand picking the grains, one by one. This was slow work, but it insured the seed planted to be of nearly perfect quality.

Turning the soil, I selected an acre underlying a timothy sod with a scattering of clover. The soil was a black loam. During the winter the ground was covered with manure. Late in the winter when the ground was not frozen, I cut the sod and manure with a heavy cut. This pulverized the sod, so as to make it available later on for the plant roots. I broke the ground eight and one-half inches deep in March. Close behind the plow I followed with a drag to keep the moisture. After the floods and other heavy rains of March and April, the ground was harrowed to conserve the moisture. On May 8 the soil was double cut, harrowed and dragged. On the following day 320 pounds of fertilizer, analyzing one per cent. ammonia, six per cent. available phosphoric acid and eight per cent. potash, was drilled into the seed bed.

The same day the corn was planted, drilled in rows three feet two inches apart. All corn ruined by wire worms was promptly replanted. Later a frost killed this replanted corn when but a few inches high. As it was too late to replant, I reset plants from a reserve plot of corn plants.

In the cultivation, a harrow used soon after corn came through ground, and five plowings, served to conserve moisture and at the same time keep the ground loose. After the second cultivation I aimed at shallow plowing.

In July the corn was suckered and about the same time hoed.

On July 6 a very severe windstorm nearly ruined the acre. On the 8th and 9th much time was spent in an attempt to straighten and prop up the twisted and broken stalks. This made it possible for many bushels of corn to mature.

All smutty stalks were doped with a mixture of fungicides on July 17. A second application proved successful. Also all tassels were cut from smutty and barren stalks.

No other work was done to the crop until husking, in October. The yield was 111.76 bushels of shelled corn, all of which was in a matured and marketable condition.

In conclusion, I think that the one big factor in the cultivation, from start to finish, was holding the moisture.

WHAT IT ALL MEANT

By HAROLD CARTER.

To Clarice it seemed the most amazing thing in the world. Only three weeks before marriage had been the farthest thing from her thoughts. Of course, she had hoped to be married some day, as every girl does. But "some day" seems any day when one is only twenty-three.

And now she was engaged. And to Richard Littlefield, the famous editor of the most famous, though not the most widely circulated magazine in America. Littlefield was only thirty-four, but when old Granger died, during the previous year, he had at once been selected for his position, and had filled it uncommonly well.

The wife of Richard Littlefield! Why, Clarice's father had taken the magazine for years and sworn by it. As Littlefield's wife she would meet everybody who was of the least—and most—consequence in every field of art.

It had happened very simply. Richard had come to stay at the little summer hotel next door, and he had met Clarice, and they had loved each other. That was all she knew about it, Clarice would explain to her inquiring friends.

And when Richard went away he bent down and whispered that he was coming back for her soon—as soon as he could make arrangements. This was September, and they hoped to be married at Christmas.

Nevertheless, Clarice's happiness had not been untinted with distress. Though Richard talked like any ordinary man, she knew that his mind was one of the most brilliant in America. And she, with her poor education—a mere high school one—how could she make a fit wife for Richard?

Clarice had, indeed, surreptitiously endeavored to improve her education from the first day she met Richard, but she gave it up in despair. The task was too big a one to be completed by Christmas. She had also, because her widowed mother was not well off, tried to improve her culinary knowledge, so that they could dispense with "help," but after meeting and loving Richard the cook-book went into the attic, and Clarice brooded. She was miserable. She feared every minute that she would say something foolish. O, if he should discover the profundity of her ignorance!

Then it was that an idea came into her head so staggering that it took complete possession of her. She would write a story anonymously and have it accepted for Richard's magazine!

"How do people get stories accepted?" she had asked him once. "Why, they try and try, and never say die," he answered.

When he was gone Clarice set herself laboriously to work upon her plot. It was a love story, of course, and the heroine was very much like Clarice, just as the hero was like Richard. With trembling fingers Clarice dropped the precious missive in the letter-box, and then she waited.

On the fifth morning a long envelope came to her. Clarice's heart beat high. She opened it. Out tumbled her story, and, inside the folded pages was a printed notice as follows:

"The editors of 'The Leviathan' regret that, after careful consideration, they are unable to use the MS which you have so kindly submitted."

There was not even a name signed to it.

Clarice spent that afternoon in her room crying. She did not care about the story, but she knew that she would never make a wife for Richard. Later that day hope revived. The next morning the village stationer got a fresh order for foolscap. Two days afterward a second story was posted. This time the hero was still more like Richard, but the heroine was not in the least like Clarice. Clarice was blonde and petite, and the heroine, Ada Maltravers, was tall, brunette, and statuesque.

Evidently this sort of heroine also failed to meet the approbation of the story-hearted editor, for in four days' time Ada Maltravers was back on Clarice's hands.

"CASCARETS" RELIEVE SICK, SOUR STOMACH

Move Acids, Gases and Clogged Waste from Liver and Bowels

Get a 10-cent box now.

That awful sourness, belching of acid and foul gases; that pain in the pit of the stomach, the heartburn, nervousness, nausea, bloating after eating, dizziness and sick headache, means a disordered stomach, which cannot be regulated until you remove the cause. It isn't your stomach's fault. Your stomach is as good as any.

Try Cascarets; they immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter and poison from the bowels. Then your stomach trouble is ended. A Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box from any drug store will keep your stomach sweet; liver and bowels regular for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

Had Him Cornered.

A newly elected officer in one of the prominent New York publishing houses is having the following story told at his expense: Shortly after the announcement of his election he met half a dozen of his colleagues at The Players one noon, and they all sat down together for luncheon. Congratulations were extended, and he accepted them gracefully, as was becoming in one of his position. Luncheon was ordered. "And do you sign checks, too?" inquired one of the number. "Oh, yes," came the ready answer. Whereupon six luncheon checks were thrust upon him with a chorus of "Then sign these." He signed them.

Why Cats on Vessels.

People often wonder why seafaring men are so fond of taking cats with them on a voyage. This is explained by two circumstances. Marine insurance does not cover damage done to cargo by the depredations of rats; but if the owner of the damaged goods can prove that ship was sent to sea unfurnished with a cat, he can recover damages from the shipmaster. Again, a ship found at sea with no living creature on board is considered a derelict, and is forfeited to the admiralty, the finders, or the king. It has often happened that, after a ship has been abandoned, some domestic animal—a dog, or bird, or, most frequently, a cat—has saved the vessel from being considered as a derelict.

Silenced.

A New York politician, stump speaking in a neighboring city, was several times interrupted by a man who kept shouting, "Liar! Liar!" Finally the politician said: "If the gentleman at the back of the hall who is so anxious that the audience should know his name will write it on a slip of paper and hand it to the chairman instead of bawling it at the top of his voice he will save himself a lot of trouble." But the interrupter kept his peace and his identity.

MILLERS WIN BY RULING

Supreme Court of U. S. O. K's "Bleached Flour."

High Tribunal Declares That Mixture Can't Be Condemned Unless Shown to Be Harmful.

Washington, Feb. 25.—Food manufacturers and millers throughout the country won a decisive victory over the government when the Supreme court held that federal inspectors could not condemn under the pure food law "bleached flour" unless they proved that the flour contained enough poisonous ingredients added in bleaching to make the flour injurious to health.

Officials of the department of agriculture contended that adding any quantity of poisonous ingredients was in violation of the law. They concentrated their efforts to have this principle established in the bleached flour case, because the decision will be applicable to every other proceeding involving an article of food claimed to contain poisonous or deleterious ingredients.

In announcing the decision Justice Day pointed out that the government only complained that 1.5 parts to 1,000,000 of a poisonous character was added by bleaching. He held that every word of the pure food law prohibiting in interstate commerce a food if it contained "any added poisonous or other added deleterious ingredient which may render such article injurious to health," must be given its true meaning.

"If it cannot by any possibility, when the facts are reasonably considered, injure the health of any consumer," said the justice, "such flour, though having a small addition of poisonous or deleterious ingredient, may not be condemned by the act."

The principal effect of the decision, officials said, would be to require much more expert testimony in practically every case the government prosecutes for violation of the pure food law, and consequently the winning of a much smaller percentage of suits.

MAY BE NEW RUSS ENVOY

Representative W. G. Sharp of Ohio Slated for St. Petersburg Post.

Washington, Feb. 25.—In order to enlarge the scope of the federal reserve system the organization committee issued rules and regulations prescribing conditions under which state banks and trust companies may enter the system and buy stock in the reserve banks to be organized.

The committee decided any state bank or trust company may make application for right to subscribe for stock in the federal reserve bank or organized or to be organized in its locality.

Provision is also made in the new regulations for state banks and trust companies to become members of the federal reserve system by first being converted into national banks. Where such conversion is completed before the expiration of 60 days after the passage of the federal reserve act, these banks will be given until February 23, 1914, to accept the provisions of the act.

Inexpensive Son-in-Law.

The old gentleman showed a good deal of displeasure. "It seems to me," he exclaimed testily, "rather presumptuous for a youth in your position to ask for my daughter's hand! Can you advance any good reason why I should give my consent?"

"Certainly, sir!" promptly replied the suitor.
"What?" pressed the old man.
"I am comparatively modest and economical in my personal expenditure," replied the suitor, "and I think, sir, that, altogether, you will find me less costly to maintain than almost any other son-in-law you could select."

Reading Between the Lines.

To get the good of the library in the school of life you must bring into it something better than a mere bookish taste. You must bring the power to read between the lines, behind the words, beyond the horizon of the printed page. Philip's question to the chamberlain of Ethiopia was crucial: "Understandest thou what thou readest?" I want books not to pass the time, but to fill it with beautiful thoughts and images, to enlarge my world, to give me new friends in the spirit, to purify my ideals and make them clear, to show me the local color of unknown regions and the bright stars of universal truth.—Henry Van Dyke.

Our Latin American Trade.

Exports from the United States to Latin-American countries have increased from $108,000,000 in 1900 to $321,000,000 in 1913, a gain of 197 per cent. Imports from them increased 171 per cent. in the same period. Exports to other parts of the world increased 67 per cent. The department of commerce in a statement says: "The most rapid gains in the exports during this period occurred in the trade with Argentina and Brazil. The value of merchandise exported to Argentina in 1900 was $11,500,000, and in 1913 over $52,750,000; to Brazil, in 1900, $1,500,000, and in 1913, $42,666,000. Cuba showed a marked gain.

What Worried the Boy.
Douglas Mallach, author and woods-
man, tells this story of his little son Donald. The two were watching a moving picture melodrama and the hero had suffered severely in an explosion. One of the workmen dropped his shovel and lent a hand to carry the injured man to a place of safety. Donald appeared much troubled. His father asked the reason.
"Oh, papa, they went away and forgot all about the shovel!"

He Found Out.
Mr. Pinchpenny had a habit of getting professional services free whenever he needed them by working some sort of a dodge or other. Not long ago he met his doctor on the street.
"Doctor, Goodfellow," he said, "I know a man who is suffering agonies
from neuralgia. At times it is so bad he simply howls with the pain.
What would you do in that case?"
"Well, I don't know," was the doctor's prompt reply. "I suppose I should howl with pain too."

PLACE FOR THE BOOKS

NO HOUSE COMPLETE WITHOUT PROVISION FOR THEM.

Practical Idea, Which Can Be Made
to Do Double Duty, Is Shown—Cretonne-Covered Shelves Will Be Found Useful.

By ETHEL DAVIS SEAL.

One can imagine a house without pictures more readily than one can imagine even a single room without books. Books stand for culture and education in our lives, for beauty and decoration in our homes; and the two facts are inseparable, in that the books, together with their keeping places, are a sure index to their owner's character.

And you can't fool the public about your books, either. Books have a way of telling tales—other than the stories

they hold. People know whether they are loved books or not; they know if they are books for show or delight—
both from what the books tell them,
and where the books are.

The first illustration shows a practical suggestion for a keeping place
for books, and which does double duty
as a seat as well. This idea could be carried out for the living room, hall or bedroom. It can be made of boards
and painted to match the woodwork;
or a large packing box of just the right
proportions might answer, if one's judgment approved it. The cushion is of hair and is three inches thick. If hair costs more than one cares to spend, upholsterer's cotton would be comfortable and serviceable.

Sometimes bookshelves can be made out of faulty boards and covered entirely with cretonne, as shown in the second drawing. The ends and, if necessary, the top are covered plainly

with the material, tacked on by means of upholsterer's tacks. Curtains to match are then hung at the front.
And so, if you don't love books
enough to have a lot lying around loose, and are too old to learn (!)
train your children to, and you will soon be sure to find a call to concoct
all sorts of attractive little keeping places for books—and here are quite a number of ideas right to your hand.

BEDROOM DESK MOST USEFUL

Some Remarkably Handsome Designs,
Though Expensive, Are Offered to Prospective Buyers.

The bedroom desk fittings have always been more or less of a problem, as the usual brass sets seem a little heavy for a dainty pink or blue chintz hung boudoir. This year
there are ivory colored sets of enameled wood which have a latticed
pattern for the trimming which shows
a bit of a brownish cast through it.
They have more character than the plain white sets, and yet add rather than detract from the daintiness of the room. Silver which matches either the striped dresser silver or the engraved patterns can be matched for the desk fittings. Complete sets with blotter, clock and all the many useful and useless articles possibly run as high as $175. The new clocks are really lovely. They are shaped like half an orange and lie flat on the desk
with the curved part up and holding the face of the clock. One does instinctively look down when writing,
and it saves time instead of making
a conscious effort to look at a clock.
But aside from that they are quite an addition to the pretty desk fit-
tures.

Dancing Frocks.

Smocking trims one of the season's most dainty dancing school frocks for the very small girl. The plain under-skirt is attached to a skeleton lining
and over it hangs the tunic, shorter
in the front than in the back, to give the fashionable silhouette, says the Philadelphia North American. The fullness at the back and over the shoulder is held in with smocking, and the twisted silk cord encircles the waist
and is loosely knotted in the back.
Soft silk, chiffon or muslin is equally pretty for this little model.

Unconquerable Cat.

There is just one animal man has never conquered, never can conquer.
Centuries ago every other beast became the slave of man or else fled far from human habitation. One and one only refused to flee or to submit.
This only exception to a world of servants and of scared enemies is the domestic cat. When some animals became man's slaves and others fled from him, the cat did neither. It simply took all the favors and advantages man had to offer, and refused to do one lick of work in exchange.
Beat a dog and he will fawn on you.
Beat a cat and it will attack you and then desert you. You can't conquer
the cat. You can't make it work.

Arabia's Insane Tree.

In Arabia there is the insane or hysterical tree, so named from the fact that all who eat of its seeds are affected as if they had taken an overdose of laughing gas. It is not a large tree, seldom growing over six feet
high. The seeds have a sweet, sickish taste and a decidedly unpleasant odor.
As soon, however, as they have been pounded up and swallowed the user shows an extreme hilarity along with wild dancing, singing, and utter extravagance of language and motion. It is claimed no other drug in the world
has a similar effect.

DECLARES DEWEY ERRS

German Holds American Admiral Favored British.

Von Diederichs Also Says American Is Wrong in Story on Manila Clash—
Didn't Play Spanish Tune.

Baden Baden, Feb. 25.—Admiral von Diederichs, who commanded the German warships in Manila bay when friction arose with Admiral Dewey
during the Spanish war, said the American admiral's account of that incident
as recently published was full of errors. In "consideration for the honor of his country and his officers," the German admiral continued, he felt compelled to give his side of the case.
Admiral von Diederichs attributed the trouble between the Germans and the Americans largely to malicious reports in English papers in China and the absence of definite regulations governing the blockade and the movi-
ments of foreign warships.
The admiral said he was desirous of co-operating with and supporting Admiral Dewey from the beginning, but Dewey's fondness for Captain Chichester, in command of the British squadron, and the time Dewey spent with the British officers, kept him from seeing as much of the American as he wished.

The foundation of the trouble was laid with the arrival of the first German cruiser, the Irene. It was reported in Manila that the Irene's band played the Spanish anthem when passing the American squadron, which was interpreted to mean that the Germans were arriving to take the Spanish side. As a matter of fact, said Admiral von Diederichs, the band played the American anthem, but the erroneous version reached the American sailors and aroused ill-feeling. He regretted that
"the Manila affair" had been "raked
out of oblivion," as he had hoped the misunderstandings were smoothed over. He and Admiral Dewey were friends and had exchanged visits, letters and gifts.

Washington, Feb. 25.—Admiral Dewey remained silent in regard to the agitation created in Germany by the publication of his memoirs. It is believed by the admiral that a wrong
impression has been created in Germany as to his comments upon the action of the German naval officers at Manila by reason of imperfect and unduly condensed extracts from his book.

Cutler Wins Mat Bout.

Chicago, Feb. 25.—Another highly touted foreign wrestler "blew up."
Following the path first blazed by George Hackenschmidt on a smaller scale Gustav Fristensky, press agent to the skies, went down to defeat at the hands of Charley "Kid" Cutler before 5,000 people at the Coliseum. Cutler won in straight falls and it took him a little over ten minutes to turn
the trick.
